Columbus, OH (December 6, 2021) – Breeze Airways, the Seriously Nice[™] new U.S. low-fare airline, is adding a new route from John Glenn Columbus International (CMH) to Palm Beach International Airport (PBI) in February, its first new market addition since the airline’s debut at CMH in July.

With the new route, Breeze will now serve 6 destinations from Columbus:

- Charleston, SC
- Hartford, CT
- New Orleans, LA
- Norfolk, VA
- Palm Beach, FL (2/19)

The airline will add the Saturday-only roundtrip flights to Palm Beach on February 19 and will be the only airline providing the nonstop service. Fares on the route will start at $59 one-way.

“Breeze’s business model is to add ‘nice, new nonstop’ flights on routes where only connecting service is offered by other carriers,” said David Neeleman, Breeze’s Chairman and CEO. “We’re excited to introduce Breeze service to South Florida, and look forward to adding more routes from Columbus.”
